THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The great demonstration at Cooper Union last night was a vindication of the principle of self-government.

It proved that the people are not indifferent to their highest interests, that they are not bound by party ties to bad nominations, that they propose to govern themselves-not to be bossed.

The spirit of the meeting was unmistakable. It meant the continued prosecution of rascals, the persistent rebuke of corruption, the merited reward of good and faithful

Pittsburg is a busy place. It is located at the point where the Alleghany and Monongahela rivers fork. Nature has done much for Pittsburg. She placed her in one of the busiest places in America and then gave her natural gas. This gas can be conducted into a room by means of pipes, and, by an au-tomatic arrangement recently perfected, will, at any hour designated on an alarm clock, enter your room, scratch a match on its trousers and light your fire, so that you need asks where it can get a job is what we have been looking for.

Artificial gas is superficial. It likes to look well in company and seem brilliant and attractive in society, but it is false at heart. It likes to seem refined and gentlemanly and polished and sincere, but rise and assert yourself and blow it out and see how quick it will take your life. Look the other way ten minutes and see how soon it will slip down into your cellar and toy with your meter.

But natural gas comes out of the ground, spits on its hands and asks where there is anything to do. It then proceeds to do it. The young men of America will do well to emulate the natural and untutored gas of Pittsburg. Do not seek to shine too much by night or attract attention by organizing a gas leak by day. Give less attention to the management of the meter and more to the matter of adequate service and you will do well. Give your best endeavors to the promotion of your employer's interests, no matter the search of the meter and the search of the promotion of your employer's interests, no matter the search of the search of the promotion of your employer's interests, no matter of all the search of the se motion of your employer's interests, no mat-ter what your salary may may be, breathe through your nose, look up and press on-ward. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] NEWARK, Oct. 28.-The denial of Dr. McGlynn of the reported statement of Father Brennan, of this city, at Pittsburg, to the effect that McGlynn was going back on Henry George and would return to the Catholic Church, has caused a big sensation here. The Rev. Brennan is one of the curates in St. James's Church, in this city. He is at in St. James's Church, in this city. He is at present out of town, having gone to Chicago to attend the consecration of Bishop Burke as missionary bishop. A telegram was received at the parochial residence this morning from Father Brennan, stating that he had been interviewed at Pittsburg by a reporter, who insisted upon it that he was a bishop and would not be convinced to the contrary. In response to the reporter's questions he had given him his views upon a number of questions. He did not mention having spoken to the reporter on the McGlynn matter, and Father Cody, the pastor of the church, said he did not believe that Father Brennan had made any such remarks in regard to Dr. McGlynn as he is credited with making. He took his deposit book, changed the figure one to eleven, and added a lot of numbers to it, to show that he had $66 deposited in the bank.

Armed with the book he went to Mrs. Faustina C. Wicker, of 341 South Seventh street, and modestly requested the loan of $48 for a few days. He showed her the book with a deposit of $66 to his credit, and offered to leave her the book for security. Mrs. Wicker loaned the money and found that she had been swindled. Von Foster was arrested and held in $300 on the charge of swindling. of swindling.

WESTERN UNION DIRECTOR SAYS IT MUST

St. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 29.-The Pioneer Press prints the following : The wheat crop n Minnesota and Dakota has been a subject of much speculation. An estimate of the crop, based on reports from correspondents of much speculation. An estimate of the crop, based on reports from correspondents in every wheat-growing county in the State and Territory, is therefore given to-day. In May last an estimate of the crop, based on reports from the same correspondents, gave the total as $5,000,000 and $9,000,000. The bases of the acreage for Minnesota are the figures furnished by H. Stockenstrom, Assistant Secretary of State and Statistician, whose report is made up from assessors' reports. There is no doubt that these reports are under the mark this year.

The average yield per acre in this State on the present crop is twelve and one-half bushels, which, on $,046,000 acres (Mr. Stockenstrom's report), would yield $8,085,000 bushels. In Dakota, until the present year, there has been no means of obtaining official figures on acreage. The Pioneer-Press has relied on its own figures for several years, and has found them to be, in the main, correct. The increase in acreage this year is about four hundred thousand, making a total of $,075,000. The average yield per acre is fifteen and one-half bushels, making the total crop 47,662,000. This means a total crop for Minnesota and Dakota of $5,747,000, or $6,000,000 in round numbers.

The present crop of Minnesota is $,710,000 bushels less than the crop of 1836, reported by the State Department, and about 4,000,000 less than the amount given by the Washington Bureau. The amount held by the farmers at the beginning of the present crop year, while very difficult to estimate, probably did not exceed 2,000,000 bushels. There was in store in Minnespolis, St. Paul and Duluth Aug. 1 5,800,000 more, which, added to the crop of 86,000,000 in round numbers, as the available resources for all purposes. The Minneapolis mills will need 30,000,000 bushels before the next crop.

RECEPTION TO GEN. HAWLEY.

Of course there is very little desire to buy the Gould fancies and even Missouri Pacific is shunned in view of the talk of receiverships and the tussle the Southwestern system is having with the Atchison. This road is opparently in the fight to stay and means to get traffic even if it has to make low rates to accomplish its purpose.

Director Hopkins, of the K. T., says there is no "immediate" danger of a receivership. He further says: "So long as the roads maintain rates they will get along all right." But this is exactly what they are not doing, and hence there is no telling what Bride, Miss Horner.

Mr. A. L. Hopkins, a K. T. director, says this morning that there is no danger of a receivership; that the company has no floating debt, and the December coupon will be paid. Mr. Hopkins concludes, however, by saying that it is foolish for any one to say what the outcome of the fierce competition between the roads will be.

The appointment of a receiver for Chesapeake & Ohio is not generally regarded as an event of partitoflar market significance, as its condition has been deplorably weak for many years. A prominent trader on change this morning describes the property as follows: "It starts nowhere, goes nowhere and has never amounted to anything."

bling through its business in a happy, peaceful way in Cooper Union the other evening, when way in Cooper Union the other evening, when fourteen men who stood at the outer end of the main side shoved far apart from one another to let a great man pass through. It was Editor Tom Costigan, of the City Record. He was on his way to the chairman's deak on business of importance. His elbows brushed the seats on either side as he majestically progressed. Four mes could not have encompassed his girth. As soon as the crowd saw him every man in it began to cheer with all his might. The uproar continued without interruption until Tom sank into a seat on the platform.

"You ought to be a proud man," a friend afterward said to him. "The boys cheered you with more enthusiasm than they did any of the speakers. "Frount? Not a bit of it," said poor Tom, saidly. "They only cheered for fun, because they had never seen before a man who could fill a whole isle in this big hall."

PRICE OF FUEL GOING UP.

THE CONSPIRACY OF THE COAL BARONS ... TIGHTENING SCREWS ON THE POOR.

Miners Working at Starvation Wages and the Men who Own the Mines Several Weeks Behind on Their Orders-All Sales Made Now on an Advance for Next Month's Prices-Prospects in this City. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.

HE increasing scarcity of coal, caused by the strike in the Lehigh region, has caused another advance in the prices by the Reading Coal and Iron Company. For some time in this city have been unable to obtain coal from the Lehigh region, and have had to order from the Reading.

This extra demand, in addition to the regular business of the Reading, coming besides at a time of the year when the coal companies the busiest, has been more than the Reading could supply at ruling prices, and has caused prices to be advanced from time to time. The Reading is now several weeks behind its orders, and has given notice that it will take no more except at an advance of 25 cents per ton over present prices.

vance of 25 cents per ton over present prices, to go into effect Nov. 1, for the city and line trade. For more than a week past all orders have been made subject to next month's prices.

The movement of coal has been heavy enough to tax the motive power on the Reading's lines to the utmost to haul the coal to market. The prices to dealers at the mines, exclusive of freight, are $3 for egg, stove, small stove and chestnut, and $2.85 for broken coal.

tion was given last night in honor of Gen.
Joseph R. Hawley and his affianced bride,
Miss Edith C. Hornor, by Mr. and Mrs. H.
Clay Trumbull, at their residence, 4103 Walnut street. Mr. Trumbull is chaplain-inchief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and Gen. Hawley is third officer, the first and second officers being Gen. Sheridan and ex-President Hayes. Chaplain Trumbull and Gen. Hawley have been warm friends ever since they stumped the State of Vermont together thirty-one years ago.

The house was brilliantly illuminated, and the floral decorations which adorned the entrances to the rooms the chandeliers and crimson draperies were rich and beautiful. Suspended from the damask curtains in the front of the parlor and surrounded by a floral wreath, were two large letters, "H. H." the first being of red carnations, with the shoulder-strap of a brigadier-general, made of the same flowers in blue and white for the centrepiece, while the second was made of blue violets, with the emblems of the Royal Order of the Red Cross in the centre of it, the degree having been conferred upon Miss Hornor by Queen Victoria.

DIAMEN MISS IDLE.

Meanwhile all is desolation in the Lehigh region, where thousands of miners are out of work. In Hazleton groups of men are hang! may be the streets with a listless along the streets THOUSANDS OF MINERS IDLE. burned up about $75,000 worth of coal for pumping, spent about $25,000 for wages of engineers, firemen and pumpinen, and maintained nearly 200 mules in idleness at a cost of about $15,000. These are large figures, and if to them be added the operators' loss of profits and of trade, which cannot be estimated even approximately, the figures become larger still.

THE BOSSES WON'T GIVE IN.

THE BOSSES WON'T GIVE IN.

The worst of it is, there seems to be no prospect of a settlement. The Lehigh operators declare that they will not yield to the men, earlier in no work were done for years. On the other hand the men declare that they will never return to work at the old rate.

Meanwhile complaints are pouring into the headquarters of coal combinations from all parts of the country east of the Rocky Mountains about the scarcity of coal. New England is clamoring for it, though the retailers are asking from $3 to $5 a ton more than has been charged for ten years.

Even higher prices obtain out West, and the coal barons, with the powerful aid of the railroads, are shrewd enough to rush all the anthracite coal they can in that direction before navigation closes. New York and the East is the sufferer by these tactics. Retailers in the coal trade here anticipate great inconvenience for the rich and actual suffering to the poor before the winter is well begun.

While the sentiment among the coal trade while the sentiment among the coal trade of this city is generally adverse to any in-crease in prices, the action of the Reading Railroad in raising the price 25 cents, to-gether with the small supply on hand and the labor troubles, seems to dealers to point to an advance.

Mr. E. P. Campbell, Traffic Manager of the Eric Railway, said to-day: "Coal is very scarce and retail dealers are getting what they can for it."

Inquiry at the office of the Communipaw Coal Company, of Whitney & Kenmore, and of other wholesale and retail dealers, showed that there would be no surprise if the price of coal was raised from 25 to 50 cents per ton.
